AFFIDAVIT OF CHRISTOPHER BUTLER

1. I am the Office Manager at the Internet Archive, located in San Francisco, California. I make this declaration of my own personal knowledge.

2. The Internet Archive is a website that provides access to a digital library of Internet sites and other cultural artifacts in digital form. Like a paper library, we provide free access to researchers, historians, scholars, and the general public. The Internet Archive has partnered with and receives support from various institutions, including the Library of Congress.

3. The Internet Archive has created a service known as the Wayback Machine. The Wayback Machine makes it possible to surf more than 240 billion pages stored in the Internet Archive's web archive. Visitors to the Wayback Machine can search archives by URL (i.e., a website address). If archived records for a URL are available, the visitor will be presented with a list of available dates. The visitor may select one of those dates, and then begin surfing on an archived version of the Web. The links on the archived files, when served by the Wayback Machine, point to other archived files (whether HTML pages or images). If a visitor clicks on a link on an archived page, the Wayback Machine will serve the archived file with the closest available date to the page upon which the link appeared and was clicked.

4. The archived data made viewable and browseable by the Wayback Machine is compiled using software programs known as crawlers, which surf the Web and automatically store copies of web files, preserving these files as they exist at the point of time of capture.

5. The Internet Archive assigns a URL on its site to the archived files in the format [http://web.archive.org/web/\[Year in yyyy\]\[Month in mm\]\[Day in dd\]\[Time code in hh:mm:ss\]/\[Archived URL\]](http://web.archive.org/web/[Year in yyyy][Month in mm][Day in dd][Time code in hh:mm:ss]/[Archived URL]). Thus, the Internet Archive URL <http://web.archive.org/web/19970126045828/http://www.archive.org/> would be the URL for the record of the Internet Archive home page HTML file (<http://www.archive.org/>) archived on January 26, 1997 at 4:58 a.m. and 28 seconds (1997/01/26 at 04:58:28). A web browser may be set such that a printout from it will display the URL of a web page in the printout's footer. The date assigned by the Internet Archive applies to the HTML file but not to image files linked therein. Thus images that appear on a page may not have been archived on the same date as the HTML file. Likewise, if a website is designed with "frames," the date assigned by the Internet Archive applies to the frameset as a whole, and not the individual pages within each frame.

6. Attached hereto as Exhibit A are true and accurate copies of printouts of the Internet Archive's records of the HTML files for the URLs and the dates specified in the footer of the printout.

7. Attached hereto Exhibit B are printouts of calendar pages for archived URLs, which list by date archived records available for those URLs (specified in the printout's footer) in the Wayback Machine.

8. I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

About eDirectree

eDirectree - almost certainly the best online group management and sharing application in the world - has two main goals:

1. We want to help people make their groups available to the people who matter to them.

Maybe they want to reconnect past friends from old sports teams, clubs, and groups they belonged to in high school, or maybe they want to share something interesting with their friends. Or, maybe they want to securely and privately share groups of their relatives with their family across the country.

eDirectree makes all these things possible and more! To do this, we want to get groups into and out of the system in as many ways as we can: from yearbook photos, from booklets, from spreadsheet files, from the web, from mobile devices, from the users' home computers and from whatever software they are using to manage their groups.

And we want to be able to push them out in as many ways as possible: on the eDirectree website, in RSS feeds, by email, by posting to outside blogs or ways we haven't thought of yet. What else are we going to use those smart refrigerators for? eDirectree is the Magic Marker that makes it easy to get groups from one person to another in whatever way they want.

2. We want to enable new ways of organizing groups.

Once you make the switch to digital, it is all too easy to get overwhelmed with the sheer number of groups you join with that itchy trigger finger. Folders, the principal way people go about organizing groups today, are great -- until you get to 20 or 30 or 50 of them. They worked in the days when you just had one computer and space in your garage, but the "folder" metaphor is in desperate need of a Phoenix condo and full retirement.

Part of the solution is to make the process of organizing groups collaborative. In eDirectree, you can give your friends, family, and other contacts permission to organize your groups - not just to add comments, but also notes and tags. People like to ooh and ahh, laugh and cry, make wisecracks when sharing groups. Why not give them the ability to do this when they look at them over the internet? And as all this info accretes around the groups as metadata, you can find them so much easier later on, since all this info is also searchable.

eDirectree continues to evolve in myriad ways, all of which are designed to make it easier and better. Check out the eDirectree Blog to stay apprised of the latest developments. The fact that you've read to the end of this entire document and are hanging out at the bottom of this page with nothing but this silly text to keep you company is proof of a deep and abiding interest on your part. What are you waiting for? Sign up now!

FatDoor: Whitepages 2.0?

May 31st, 2007 by Sebastien Provencher

Just received a message in the last few days from Raj Abhyanker, co-founder of FatDoor. He informs me that they just launched their alpha site at the Ignite session at the Where 2.0 conference in San Jose, California. FatDoor is a new hyperlocal web site focused on discovering who and what's in your neighborhood.

Highlights:

- Comes pre-loaded with residential and business data (based on zip code), mashed-up with Microsoft Virtual Earth
- You can claim your name and position your avatar on your house
- You can see your various neighbors and their interest via tags but it does not show their address or their phone number for privacy reasons
- You can contact your neighbors
- You can modify people's profile (images, text) a la wiki
- You can create and join interest groups
- You can see deals and merchant reviews in your neighborhood (crawled content)
- You can see events in your neighborhood
- There is also a point system linked to the contributions you do

What it means: I like the effort as it is visually very beautiful but I'm not sure I completely get it. Although I'm a big fan of hyperlocal, I'm not sure tackling it from the residential side first will allow for more traction. Many people might be frightened to open up to their neighbors about their likes, association, and where they live. In any case, anyone running a residential search site should take a look at it. There are some interesting concepts in there.
